

Interactive comment on “Soils’ seismic property research on the basis of investigation of their nonlinear properties” by V. B. Zaalishvili

Dr. of Sciences Zaalishvili

vzaal@mail.ru

Received and published: 20 May 2015

Due to the fact that in former USSR and Japan traditionally much attention (for example in contrast to the US) was given to the details of ground conditions in any investigations related to the seismic resistance of buildings and structures for investigated areas detailed ground sections were available (pits, wells, etc.). In recent years, the situation in the US has changed and more attention is paid to soil conditions of sites (at least in the articles).

---

Interactive comment on Nonlin. Processes Geophys. Discuss., 2, 425, 2015.